Response to Amendment

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Response to Arguments

- Applicant's arguments filed 26 November 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
- 2. Referring to the rejection of claim 1, the Applicant contends that the prior art Liu et al. does not teach a relaying technique. The Examiner disagrees and asserts that Liu et al. does teach the elements of claim 1, see Column 2, lines 38-52, 59-67, Column 3, lines 1-2, 32-67.
- 3. Referring to the rejection of claim 1, the Applicant contends that the prior art Liu et al. does not teach the step of determination of falsified or erroneous information, authentication directed to confirming the acceptability of apparently false or erroneous information, the registration/updating of new information based on a proper user authentication, or the detection and tracking of the source of a packet bearing falsified or erroneous information. However, in response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., determination of falsified or erroneous information, authentication directed to confirming the acceptability of apparently false or erroneous information, the registration/updating of new information based on a proper user authentication, or the detection and tracking of the source of a packet bearing falsified or erroneous information) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

4. The rejection of claims 1-18 are maintained in view of the reasons above and in view of the reasons below.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.
- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 2. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) and/or (e) as being anticipated by Liu et al. U.S. Patent No. 5,898,780. Referring to claim 1, Liu et al. discloses a system comprising:

a plurality of I/O ports (database/server/firewall/remote computer) connected to network terminals; means for storing information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal (customer database/host table), said information indicating correspondence between each of said I/O ports and a network address of said network terminal connected to each of said I/O ports (username@userdomain); means for storing user authentication information for each of said network addresses (remote user authentication server); packet communicating means for transmitting and receiving packets through said I/O ports; packet relaying means for determining a destination of the packet received from each of said plurality of I/O ports by said packet communicating means on a basis of the information held by said means for storing the information relating to the connecting state of said network terminal and instructing said packet communicating means to transmit said received packet; and user authenticating means for determining if the user authentication information specified against said network address is correct on a basis of the user authentication information stored in said means for storing the authentication information, wherein said packet relaying means operates to learn correspondence between the I/O port for receiving said received packet and said source network address on a basis of the source network address information contained in said received packet, request the user authentication information for the source network terminal if the change of the content of said means for storing the information relating to the connecting state of the network terminal is required by said learned result, specify the user authentication information transmitted by said source network terminal, instruct said user authenticating means to execute the user authentication, and change the content of said means for storing the information relating to the connecting state of said network terminal and relay said received packet

Art Unit: 2137

if the user is authenticated to be correct (See Column 2, lines 38-52, 59-67, Column 3, lines 1-2, 32-67)

Referring to claims 2 and 14, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein said network relaying device is a LAN switch (gateway) including a virtual LAN (See Column 6, lines 59-67)

Referring to claims 3,9, and 15, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein if the user authentication indicates the user is not correct for said network address, said packet communicating means operates to suppress the change of the content of said means for storing the information relating to the connecting state of said network terminal and discard the received packet having caused the change (See Column 7, lines 8-11, 19-21, 25-32, 40-45)

Regarding to claims 4, 5, 11, and 12, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein the user authentication information stored in said storing means contains a contact mail address (mail exchange (MX) address) of the concerned user or administrator, and said user authenticating means operates to create a message for indicating that a packet having the incorrect user authentication information has been transmitted to a contact mail address registered in said means for storing the user authentication information if the user authentication information is determined to be incorrect for said network address as a result of said user authentication and to instruct said packet communicating means to transmit said message (See Column 6, lines 22-28, 33-39, 43-48)

Art Unit: 2137

Referring to claims 6 and 13, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein said network address is an IP address (See Column 4, lines 11-14, Column 5, lines 14-19) Referring to claim 7, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein said network relaying means communicates by using a mobile IP (laptop) (See Column 2, lines 59-65)

Referring to claims 8 and 18, Liu et al. discloses a system comprising: registering user authentication information for each network address of each of said network terminals; receiving packets transmitted by a first network terminal through said I/O port; if a source network address contained in said received packet does not correspond to said receive I/O port stored in said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal, updating a content of said means for storing a connecting state of said network terminal so that said source network address may correspond to said receive I/O port; determining a destination of said received packet based on the information held in said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal and transmitting said received packet; and when updating the content of said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal, requesting user authentication information for said first network terminal, for doing user authentication on a basis of the user authentication information registered for each network address if said source network address does not correspond to said receive I/O port stored in said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal, and changing the content of said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal and transmitting said received packet if the correct user authentication information is obtained (See Column 5, lines 5-67, Column 6, lines 1-16, 59-67, Column 7, lines 1-6) Referring to claim 10, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein if the correct user authentication information cannot be obtained from said first network terminal, suppressing the transfer of the packets at the I/O port having received said packet (See Column 10, lines 23-30)

Referring to claim 16, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein when determining a destination of said received packet, if the correspondence between the destination network address of said received packet and the I/O port needs the update of the content of said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal, requesting user authentication information for the network terminal of said destination network address for the purpose of doing the user authentication on a basis of the user authentication information registered at each network address, and updating the content of said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal and transmitting said received packet if no correct user authentication information can be obtained (See Column 7, lines 52-67, Column 8, lines 1-7)

Referring to claim 17, Liu et al. discloses the claimed limitation wherein requesting the user authentication information for each network address held in said means for storing the information relating to a connecting state of said network terminal, for the purpose of periodically doing the user authentication on a basis of the user authentication information registered in each network address (See Column 8, lines 8-37, 44-59)

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

4. A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Courtney D. Fields whose telephone number is 703-305-8293. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon - Thu 7:00 - 5:00 pm; off every Fri.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Gregory Morse can be reached on 703-308-4789.
